

Innovating since 1802

For us at Lazzati walking through the two centuries that have seen the greatest technological development of all time has been an extraordinary adventure of continuous training and improving by constantly getting back into the game. We have innovated and renewed to continue to be a reference point in the field of quality printing and excellent packaging creations for fashion and cosmetics.

Printers, finishers and paper converters

For a dynamic and creative company like ours, it was only natural to arrive at transforming not only the surface of paper, through printing (offset, UV Led and Indigo) and finishing (classic or digital techniques), but also its volumes through die-cutting, gluing, binding and applications...

Strength of the team

Forty specialists capable of assisting the customer through all phases of the project, from creation to implementation, in a path where listening is fundamental: the customer's objectives are also ours and nobody gives up until the best solution is found.

People, not numbers

Each customer is a world with unique rules, preferences and needs and is also an opportunity to do better and better. There are no "big" or "small" customers, but project partners with whom we collaborate to achieve a common goal. We know how to be creative, technical, pragmatic, innovative, traditional, digital, experimenters, solvers, visionaries... but always reliable.

Very human values

We are proud of our ethical values which have been passed on to us by our family, and we are even more proud of seeing them applied with conviction by our entire team. Ethics, transparency and respect for people and the environment are not empty words, but a commitment renewed day after day.
